Anne Ryder

Travels from: Indiana

Fee Range: $5,001 - $7,500

Anne Ryder is a freelance journalist, professor and national speaker. President of Ryder Media LLC, Anne has reported from war zones, including Bosnia and the Kosovo conflict. She's profiled the Dalai Lama and Mother Teresa, as well as numerous other peacemakers. Anne's rare interview in Calcutta was the last one Mother Teresa gave before her death.

Anne tells stories that celebrate hope, faith and the resilience of the human spirit. She has earned 16 regional Emmy Awards and six national honors, including two Edward R Murrow awards for excellence in television. In 2009 she was inducted into the Indiana Broadcast Hall of Fame. A medical emergency prompted Anne to shift her priorities and find more personal balance. It also increased her profound respect for compassionate nursing care.

Anne is a Visiting Professor of Broadcast Journalism at Indiana University-Bloomington, maintains a freelance relationship with the Indianapolis NBC affiliate and writes for a magazine based in Italy. She has also been a guest host on National Public Radio's "Sound Medicine." Anne graduated from the University of Missouri-Columbia Journalism School and has Honorary Doctorates from three other Universities. Anne is a mother, and is passionate about issues relating to Alzheimer's research, cancer and poverty.
