Bobbe believes laughter and humor surround us daily. Her insights will change your group's perception of both. Your audience will be enlightened to the therapeutic value of humor and laughter and learn how to tap into their benefits to communicate more effectively, both personally and professionally. From team building, to personal wellness or stress management, Bobbe will empower your group to a new level of confidence!

Bobbe's work history reflects over 37 years of stability and a proven performance record of corporate training/business development with the Better Bank Group. During this time, she has served on boards directing college education, not-for-profit foundations, and community organizations. Bobbe has experienced the changes of up-sizing and down-sizing, times of sharing and parsimony, the problems associated with apathetic leadership and the sense of optimism when led by inspired management. She has been uplifting and empowering audiences through speaking and training for over 30 years.

Her approach of incorporating laughter, to improve overall performance has been covered by the media, ranging from the New York Times to T.V. Tokyo. Thousands of attendees across the country have been energized and equipped with useful tips and tools from Bobbe's fun - yet, functional - programs. Her enthusiastic delivery will achieve the positive results you're looking for, whether it's one of her favorite stories or effectively communicating your organization's message, goals, or concerns.

Dividing her time between her company, Try Laughter! Inc., her aging husband, aging children, aging parents and aging food in the fridge, Bobbe is constantly a victim of life's twists and turns. At work or home, she uses laughter to combat the stress that befalls us all daily. When that doesn't work, she writes, heads for the gym, the swim pool, or enlists the support of her therapeutic tool, Lily White, the black Lab.
