Conor Cunneen is a proud Irishman and former VP Marketing with multinational giant Unilever who hails all the way from a wee village in County Cork. He has a brogue to prove it! Today, he is happily exiled in Chicagoland, where he says "the natives are friendly, the winters are (ahem) chilly and I have been force-fed more corned beef and green beer by empathetic event planners than I ever had in Ireland! And I love my job!"

His goal - nay - his passion is to Improve People, Performance and Productivity enjoyably, and to leave you and your audience with a smile on the face, a spring in the step, a beat in the heart (which is very important) AND memorable, implementable concepts to take back to a more engaged workplace and workforce.

He also provides insightful, funny and extremely well researched emcee / master of ceremonies services to corporate and association clients who marvel at his off the cuff witticisms (most of which he says have been written well in advance!) Incentive Marketing Association writes about Conor Cunneen: "In my close to thirty years of association work, I have never seen a speaker as well received as you."

The Conor Cunneen Brand Promise to event and meeting planners is E4:

- Energize
- Educate
- Entertain
- Easy to work with.

Based on detailed discussion with you and your team, Conor will provide customized presentations to satisfy your objective. The net result will be - whether it is Sales or Strategy, Association or Agri, Corporate or Cancer - an energized, engaged, enthusiastic audience that will leave your event with the tools improve their own and colleagues' performance.
