Frank Miles

Travels from: California

Fee Range: $7,501 - $10,000

Comedian Frank Miles, who had thrilled Las Vegas audiences for over a decade with his feats as a juggler and magician, found himself with some unique new material - after being pronounced dead following a hang gliding accident. When emergency room doctors gave him a second chance at life, he learned his first lesson.

After a full recovery, Frank Miles left one successful career and embarked on another. The response has been tremendous. Courage, he realized, isn't facing death - it's facing life every day. "Laugh at Fear" is Frank Miles' off the wall, hilarious response to his near-death experience and long road to recovery. He delivers a riotously funny and totally unique show that's also a motivational workshop filled with powerful tools for handling fear.

Using comic monologues, juggling, music and magic, he creates hilarious visual metaphors to illustrate the simple truths that free us from self-imposed limits. He also demonstrates ways to confront issues of change and accompanying stress, while reminding them of what's really important in life, and puts them on the road to achieving their goals.

The show bounces from insightful stand-up comedy, to a slapstick turn juggling fire on a giant unicycle, to performing the world's only Ping-Pong spitting ballet. Frank Miles has been honored with laughter and standing ovations from crowds of more than 14,000 people.

Frank Miles's has appeared on numerous shows including Comic Strip Live, Evening At the Improv, MTV's Half-Hour Comedy Hour and HBO's The Larry Sander's Show with Garry Shandling.
