Captain George Dom, USN (Ret)

Travels from: California

Fee Range: $15,001 - $20,000

Captain George Dom is a former naval officer and aviator. His career included key leadership positions in high performance organizations, including four aircraft carrier fighter squadrons and command of the air wing on the USS John F. Kennedy. He was an instructor pilot at the Navy Fighter Weapons School (Topgun) and served as commanding officer and flight leader of the Blue Angels. After "graduating" from the Navy, he became a business aviation consultant to Fortune 500 corporations, private companies and high net-worth individuals.

Flying fighter jets in training and combat, in the unforgiving environment of an aircraft carrier at sea, as well as high-speed and very low altitude formation acrobatics, was a unique thrill and privilege for George. However, what gave him the greatest lasting satisfaction was "building" high performance leaders and teams. For an organization like the Navy, there is no such thing as lateral entry." They can't hire a squadron commander from the business world, so leadership development is not only the key to success, but crucial to survival.

Achieving individual and collective high performance requires High-Trust Leadership and Full Engagement. This is true in sports, the military, medical teams, and in the business world today. Through daily, deliberate and focused effort, a culture of high-trust and fully engaged "wingmen" can be developed at all levels. This results in a "force-multiplier" with results exponentially greater than the sum of the ingredients.

George's passion continues as he builds high performance leaders and teams across America. He helps business leaders improve their individual and organizational effectiveness by building High-Trust Leadership and Full Engagement by all hands. George Dom shares the science-based method for developing Full Engagement. He helps audience members acquire the ability to intentionally invest their full and best energy—right here, right now.
