Jeff Caldwell

Travels from: New Jersey

Fee Range: $5,001 - $7,500

Jeff Caldwell is known to audiences nationwide as a clean, clever comedian with one of the brightest stand-up acts around.

Whether writing, performing or hosting, Jeff delivers smart, funny jokes on topics from the daily news to the daily grind, subtly tailoring his material to fit any audience.

He was tapped by CBS to develop his own sitcom and has had multiple appearances on The Late Show with David Letterman, The Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson and the debut episode of Comedy Central's Live at Gotham.

His sharp innovative humor has won him sought-after guest spots on MSNBC and CNBC talk shows and tour performances with Jon Stewart.

He has performed and written shows for such organizations as The Smithsonian Institute, Discovery Channel, Toyota, Yahoo Searchlight Awards and Samsung to name a few.

Jeff is slated to star in the independent film comedy "Pin High" and continues to make appearances on national news and political TV talk shows.

Praise for Jeff Caldwell...

- "I watched your act, I called Leno on his cell phone and said, 'Jay, this guy is incredible.'" - Dennis Miller
- "Funny and smart." - George Carlin
- "Caldwell delivered an absolutely brilliant set of G-rated observational comedy that brought to mind the likes of such stand-up titans as Jerry Seinfeld and Ray Romano. Riffing on a slew of contemporary subjects, Caldwell hit the mark with almost supernatural consistency." - NJ Courier-Post
- "It is rare to see an act so clever and funny that doesn't use the usual dirty tricks. It's not easy to make everyone laugh without embarrassing some, but you had the finesse to pull it off. I would recommend your show anytime!" - Discovery Channel
- "We were extremely pleased with your tastefully funny performance at the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden...Your appearance at the Smithsonian helped to make our "Shtick Figures" comedy program a smashing success!" - The Smithsonian Associates
