Kevin's decade of success as a professional trainer, motivational speaker and consultant can be attributed to his diverse background and an intimate understanding of people. Much acclaimed for his ability to make real-life sense out of topics like Personal and Corporate Finance, Organizational Communications, Stress, Time Management and Team Building, Kevin uses personal experience, humor and a mastery of the spoken word to teach, motivate and entertain.

As founder of Lust Development Group, Kevin has taken his experience to a new level, adding the small business owner's perspective to his already vast knowledge of the corporate world. In demand internationally as a speaker, trainer and consultant, Kevin has shared his perspectives and made real differences in the lives of people at all levels on the corporate ladder. In his recorded versions of Financial Fitness: How To Budget Your Time, Your Money and Your Life, Kevin addresses a dilemma familiar to many and effectively mastered by few in a common sense, useful manner than can be applied with real results to even the most disorganized, over-committed and chaotic lives.

Your seminar attendees will delight in the learning process as Kevin's mastery of his subject matter, ability to ask and answer the tough questions, energy, enthusiasm and wit captivate, motivate, teach and entertain. One session with Kevin Lust and even your toughest audiences will be clamoring for more opportunities to meet, share and take in his unique approach to professional challenges through real-life, hands-on, life-enriching and goal-enhancing insights.
