Lyndy Phillips is not a PhD, but a PDH – Post Dinner Humorist. This dynamic speaker uses humor, entertainment and inspiration to make people happier, healthier and less stressed.

Lyndy was raised on a farm, served fifteen years in full-time ministry, worked in sales for seven years, and raised two children with his wife of twenty-eight years. On top of all that, he was Executive Director for a television show about marriage. He knows a thing or two about stress and its impact on the body!

Lyndy's presentations not only help audiences reduce stress immediately by laughing, but gives them the tools needed to keep laughing and reducing stress long after the program is over. His style of clean humorous stories mixed with comedy magic and audience participation creates a presentation that is fun to watch and memorable. His unique background allows him to be equally comfortable in front of both blue collar groups and top Executives. He has delighted audiences of all ages and backgrounds across America for nearly 35 years!

Whether you need banquet entertainment, a keynote address, or an educational session, Lyndy guarantees clean entertainment and an enjoyable program with lasting and positive side effects!
