As contributing editor of Roll Call, Capitol Hill's feisty, independent newspaper, Morton Kondracke has covered all phases of American politics and foreign policy as both a print and broadcast journalist.

With over 40 years of journalistic experience, Morton Kondracke always has his finger on the pulse of America's political scene and gives audiences an insider's look at what's really going on inside Washington offering a unique perspective on the issues of the day. He is well-respected for his astute analysis of the political dynamics between the White House and Capitol Hill.

In addition to his regular appearances and commentary on FOX News, he pens Pennsylvania Avenue, a nationally syndicated column on politics and domestic and foreign policy. He is the author of the New York Times best seller Saving Milly: Love, Politics and Parkinson's Disease, in which he chronicles his wife's battle against Parkinson's disease. Personally and professionally dedicated to finding a cure for Parkinson's disease, he is a member of both the Parkinson's Action Network and the Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research.
