Dr. Robert Genetski is the founder and president of a global economic and financial consulting service. His experience in the world of economics and finance involves a unique combination of business and academic expertise. He has headed asset management, investment research departments and served as the chief economist for several financial institutions. He has also taught economics at NYU and the University of Chicago's Graduate School of Business.

Genetski is renowned for using humor and anecdotes to make complex economic principles easily understandable. For five consecutive years he has been recognized as one of the top 5 speakers in the field of Economics/Finance. He has appeared on CNN and Fox News and his articles have appeared in Fortune, The Wall Street Journal and Investors' Business Daily.

He is the author of a number of books, notably A Nation of Millionaires, Taking the Voodoo out of Economics and Winning with Money. Dr. Genetski's latest book, Classical Economic Principles & the Wealth of Nations, has received rave reviews for its clear, concise explanation of the economic policies necessary to promote wealth and prosperity. He has served on the board of directors for a number of public companies.

Dr. Genetski has been a longtime advocate of classical economic principles. He has used these principles to create highly accurate economic and financial forecasts—correctly predicting stagnation in 1977, economic revival in the 1980s and 1990s, to predicting the historically low interest rates during the past decade. In early 2008, six months before the financial collapse, he joined President Reagan's chief economic advisor in warning it was too late to avoid a recession since "The Fed has inadvertently adopted an overly restrictive policy that has hastened the spread of bankruptcies and financial failure."

On two separate occasions Genetski has been singled out as the number one interest rate forecaster in the United States.
