Looking for something different?

International Performing Artist and Communications Catalyst Victoria Labalme brings 20 years of professional theater, comedy and film experience to the platform to create a remarkable alternative to the typical keynote speech.

Her unique specialty -- applying the performing arts to the communications and relationship-building industry -- brings together cutting-edge content with comedic performing talent to offer your audience entertainment, laughter and a thoroughly transformative learning experience.

Her show biz credits include: HBO's "Sex & The City," Caroline's comedy club on Broadway, 27 television commercials including a Super Bowl spot, advanced training with legendary mime Marcel Marceau, major news shows, and documentary films with Academy Award winners.

You can bet that clients such as Starbucks, IBM, McDonald's, Enterprise Rent-A-Car, Verizon, Blue Cross Blue Shield, American Heart Association and New York Life Insurance do not assemble their people at major company events just to be entertained. In each case they saw a unique opportunity to make a dramatic improvement to the productivity, profitability and performance of their people.
